President Calls For An End To 'Selfishness'

WASHINGTON, April 3—President Truman said today the United States faces grave dangers from Communist aggression because too many Americans think of the defense effort only as a means of lining their pockets.

The President called for an end to selfishness and the seeking of personal gain in a speech at a ceremony in which he laid the cornerstone of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church in the nation's capital.

At the dedication of the new building of the century-and-a-half-old church where Abraham Lincoln worshipped, the President asked for Americans at home to make sacrifices in the spirit of the youth fighting and dying in Korea. Mr. Truman said:

"Our young men are offering their lives for us in the hills of Korea—and yet many of us are chiefly concerned over whether we can buy a television set next week, or make the profit we expect to make this year, or how we can turn the situation to our own advantage.

"Our men there are making heroic sacrifices. They are fighting and suffering in an effort to prevent the tide of aggression from sweeping across the world. They are fighting to prevent the much greater sacrifice and suffering which all of us would endure if another world war comes."

The President said that it is the duty of Americans at home to lay aside "a tendency to think of the defense effort only in selfish terms—in terms of avoiding personal inconvenience or making some personal gain."

The President said every American should continually ask himself both whether we are responding with the moral conviction and the faith which (this cause) demands.

The President spoke on a religious theme, stating that only "a burning faith can carry this country through the trials that are ahead of it."

The President said that the fighting in Korea is in defense of "the religious principles upon which our nation and our whole way of life are founded." Mr. Truman added:

"We are defending the right of people to gather together, all across our land, in churches such as this one.

"For the danger that threatens us is utterly and totally opposed to all of these things. The international Communist movement denies the existence of God, and, whenever it can, it stamps out the worship of God.

"Our religious faith gives us the answer to the false beliefs of Communism."

Stalemate In Korea Irks Solons

Call Mac Home, Senator Urges

WASHINGTON, April 3—A leading Senate Republican proposed today that Congress recall Gen. Douglas MacArthur for advice on his ideas for ending the Korean war.

Sen. Bridges, (R) N. H., in urging that Congress take this initiative, charged that MacArthur "is being muzzled by the Truman administration." Bridges declared that "only MacArthur can recommend the proper course of action."

Meanwhile, dissatisfaction with the stalemate in Korea exploded on a wide Senate floor.

Sen. Hunt, (D) Wyo., wrote the Senate Armed Services Committee of which he is a member, asking that Defense Secretary Marshall, State Secretary Acheson and the Joint Chiefs of Staff be called for an explanation "of our objective in Korea."

Senate Armed Services Chairman Russell, (D) Ga., said that if possible he will put Hunt's letter before the unit for a decision today. Russell himself rapped at indecision in regard to Korea.

The chairman said:

"IT IS UNFORTUNATE we do not appear to have a definite, clear-cut program in Korea. It is high time our State Department and our representatives in the United Nations press vigorously for a definite statement of policy."

Sen. Smith, (R) N. J., a foreign relations committee man, urged the UN "to show some guts and strike what might be the knock-out blow ending the Korean war."

Smith said the bombing of Chinese Communist supply bases and a blockade of the China coast might end the war.

Bridges, in asking that Congress take the initiative by asking MacArthur to come home, declared:

"I believe MacArthur can recommend the proper course of action. I believe the Korean war demands affirmative action."

"America is not in the habit of ignoring its fighting men. America is not in the habit of ordering its armies to fight on foreign soil and then forgetting about them."

Bridges recalled that months ago he proposed that MacArthur be permitted to bomb Communist China's supply lines and bases and blockade the Communist China coast. Bridges continued:

"The diplomats in the United Nations have had months to decide between these alternatives while American boys died in Korea. There has been no decision. There are no half-way wars. Congress should recall MacArthur as the first step toward an American policy for the defense of America in Asia."

Bingo OK Bill Readied

Voters May Decide Issue At Polls

COLUMBUS, April 3—A proposal to amend the Ohio constitution to legalize bingo games for charitable purposes is to be introduced in the house of representatives today by Rep. John Lynch (D-Mahoning).

If the resolution passes both house and senate by three-fifths vote, it would be submitted for decision to the voters in November. Lynch stated:

"I feel there is nothing about the game of bingo that violates any sense of public morals and that there is no valid public policy against bingo when promoted for charitable purposes."

"Personally, I do not enjoy playing bingo, but I have observed that various segments of our population, and particularly older women, find the game an innocent, enjoyable and inexpensive pastime."

"I feel there is enough public interest in this matter to allow the issue to go to the voters and let them decide."

LYNCH DID NOT detail how his proposed bill would read nor did he define "charitable purposes."

It was on this point that Governor Lausche yesterday gave his blessing to the increasing number of local officials who have outlawed bingo.

Already six counties and a score of cities have clamped a lid on the game, labeling it as gambling.

The governor turned thumbs down on the lush business—even if it is conducted for "charity."

And he said he would "speedily approve" any legislation banning bingo and other lottery rackets in the state.

He said that certain individuals and organizations operated the games for charity—"when in

Price Advisory Board Selected

A local advisory board for the Office of Price Stabilization has been appointed by Mayor Thurman I. Miller.

Formation of the board was requested by William J. Trayte, deputy director of OPS, of Columbus, the mayor said. Duties of the board have not been announced yet, he added.

Selected to serve on the board are Donald Henkle, Larry A. Best, Mrs. C. G. Shulze, R. C. Palm and Donald Mason.

UN Militarists Believe Reds Ready Major Strike

IN KOREA, April 3—Mao Tse-tung's Chinese Communist forces and a revitalized Russian-equipped North Korean army are ready to strike again.

The Reds will attempt at least one more major offensive effort before they are ready to talk peace, in the opinion of Eighth Army officials.

Their attack can be expected almost at any time, backed by a force vastly superior in numbers to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's United Nations army.

This is the consensus of the highest military circles in Korea and frontline commanders. Four reasons are given why the Communist counteroffensive appears imminent:

1. General vehicular movement to the south from the Manchurian border spotted by Fifth Airforce pilots during the last several weeks.
2. The appearance on or near the battle line of fresh Chinese and North Korean troops.
3. The appearance of North Korean units equipped with new and modern weapons—much of them late Russian make.
4. The well-known Chinese Communist strategy of striking back while the enemy is moving to them.

Among the fresh units in the line in recent weeks has been the Chinese 26th Corps of the Third Field Army, last in action at Hungnam beachhead in December.

Whale Goulash Added To Menu

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 3—Today's blue plate special for 1,000 Jersey City telephone workers is pot roast—of whale.

J. G. Kayser, manager of the Bell Telephone Company's employ restaurant, said he is trying out the whale meat, imported from Norway, because of increasing resistance to the high price of meats.

In addition to the pot roast, Kayser said, the employees are being offered whale burger, whale steak and whale goulash.

GOP Solons Disagreeing

Lodge, Bricker Exchange Words

WASHINGTON, April 3—Senate GOP conservatives mounted a final attack on the troops-for-Europe resolution today—a move which another Republican warned could torpedo the North Atlantic Alliance.

Stimulated by their initial victory in writing a clear-cut "congressional approval" clause into the troops measure, advocates of tightening the proposal further were ready to vote to send it back to committee for revision.

They wish it converted into a joint resolution, which would have the force of law if enacted.

The administration upset yesterday came in the passage of an amendment that would require congressional approval before more than the four divisions presently scheduled to go are sent to Europe.

Sen. Bricker, (R) Ohio, who offered the recomittal motion, said it now had a "reasonable chance" of passing and said the Democrats should be the first to support it.

Bricker declared:

"THERE ISN'T going to be a Democratic President forever. The Democrats ought to be for maintaining the integrity of Congress."

But Sen. Lodge, (R) Mass., denounced Bricker's motion. He said:

"If we recommit this resolution it will be regarded as a torpedo in the whole North Atlantic Alliance."

Lodge re: to the Senate a dispatch quoting Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as warning that congressional delay in authorizing troops for his European defense

Non-Vet Medics Face Army Duty

COLUMBUS, April 3—Practically all physicians and medical students with less than three months military service in World War II may be called up for two years of duty.

That was the prediction of Dr. Richard Meiling, chairman of the Armed Forces Medical Council. Dr. Meiling said:

"The only doctors receiving physical deferments are those with cancer, severe diabetes or serious heart conditions. We are accepting them with 20-400 vision in one eye, and even amputees."

Use Of Fluorine In Water Pondered By Health Chief

COLUMBUS, April 3—To fluoridate or not to fluoridate—that is the question which confronts Cincinnati, Columbus, Westerville and Akron.

At least those are the cities which have questioned State Health Director John D. Porterfield, who, along with Cleveland, has decided it is nobler in the mind to insert into city water supplies the fluorine which prevents tooth decay in children.

Whole batteries of tests across the country have proved the introduction of the proper amount of fluorine into a city's water supply, over a period of time, definitely will cut down on the

10-Mile Front Set By U.S. Units

TOKYO, April 3—American troops in West Korea smashed north across Parallel 38 along a ten-mile front today as Gen. Douglas MacArthur made a flying visit to South Korean units 15 miles above the border on the east coast.

The tank-paced American assault into Red-ruled North Korea hit the fringes of an area where 600,000 to 700,000 Chinese and North Korean troops were massed for a momentarily-expected counter-offensive.

Apparently heating the poised enemy to the punch, the Americans crossed the controversial parallel "in strength" at several points.

A Tuesday night field dispatch from the west sector above Seoul and Uijongbu said the Americans advanced against light Chinese resistance. But it added that the tank-riding GIs were approaching strong hill entrenchments north of the boundary.

Where the crossing was not in strength on the ten-mile front, heavy patrols are on the line.

THE DISPATCH did not specify the points where the American troops had hammered over the prewar dividing line between South and North Korea. Nor did it mention the depths of the initial penetrations into North Korean Communist territory.

This, however, was the first American advance in strength across the artificial border since last Fall. Hitherto, in the current United Nations "Operation Killer," only patrols have probed into North Korea and then returned, except on the east coast where the South Koreans have CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 3—The first woman juror in the history of Middlesex County thinks the $8 a day compensation may be adequate for men, but it just won't do for women.

Miss Helen M. Geary, 33, was instructed by Judge Edward J. Hanifan that she will have to wear a hat while sitting in the jury box.

She replied: "That means I've got to get some hats. You can't wear the same hat every day. The daily compensation won't be enough."

WASHINGTON, April 3—Congress was told today that Russia has an army of four million men, 300 submarines, more than 400 long-range bombers and soon will have enough atomic bombs to attack the United States.

The disclosures by Chairman Vinson, (D) Ga., of the House Armed Services Committee highlighted the opening day's debate on new manpower legislation.

The co-sponsor of the Draft-Universal Military Training bill did not disclose the source of his information. Vinson stated:

"It is common knowledge that Russia has at least 175 ready divisions—a 4,000,000-man army—that she has some 300 submarines, many of them snorkels—far more than Germany had at the beginning of the last war—that she has over 400 mighty bombers capable of attacking our cities from Seattle to Washington, from Chicago to San Francisco.

"Every member of this committee knows that the atom bomb is in the hands of the Soviet Union and being produced in daily increasing numbers."

"WE KNOW THAT in a short space of time Russia will have a sufficient stockpile of atomic bombs so as to be capable of initiating a terrible aerial attack on our cities and homes whenever she wishes to do so."

"Eighty-five percent of the industrial production of the Soviet Union is devoted to munitions of war."

Vinson urged the house to approve the bill which he is sponsoring. It provides for induction of youths at age 18½, increases military service from 21 months to 26 months, and sets up a permanent post-emergency UMT program.

The House bill differs somewhat from the legislation approved by the Senate March 9. The Senate measure reduces the present 19 through 25 induction age to 18, extends service to 24 months, and provides for a UMT program.

Use Of Fluorine In Water Pondered By Health Chief

"We know the stuff cuts down on tooth decay. Therefore, it seems sort of silly not to use it just because we don't know precisely how effective it is."

He said mottling and hardening effects are noted only when too much fluorine is used.

The health department considers poor teeth a prime public health problem because it can lead to so many other more serious things—poor nutrition, kidney trouble and rheumatic fever.

Dr. Porterfield said nine of every 10 children examined in the public schools had bad teeth. He said the average is six cavities per child.

Congress' TV Use Being Debated

WASHINGTON, April 3—The conductor of television's smash hit—the Senate crime hearings—called today for a set of rules and regulations on televised congressional proceedings.

Chairman Kefauver, (D) Tenn., of the crime investigating committee, said that television has made urgent a new code of conduct for congressional committees, whose hearings are now governed largely by the chairman's wishes.

Kefauver called for settling the controversial question of whether a witness should be compelled to testify before television cameras. He also asked a uniform policy concerning news-cams and radio.

The crime chairman said the refusal of two Cleveland witnesses to testify before television, newsreel and radio cameras and microphones merely pointed up a problem which already existed—and which, he said, had existed before television came into the picture.

THE TWO OHIOANS were cited for contempt. Kefauver believes they should be prosecuted in order to get a court decision that would clarify the situation and help congress decide what to do.

The two cases, involving Louis

Scotland Yard Sleuths Solve Mystery Of Stone Of Scone

LONDON, April 3—Persons responsible for removing the historic Stone of Scone from Westminster Abbey last Christmas were reported today to have been tracked down by Scotland Yard agents.

Indications are that the prized relic was carried away by Scottish university students, but Scotland Yard at the moment is not disclosing all it knows.

It appears evident because of the hesitancy of Britain's crack sleuths that for some reason they deem it wiser to make no immediate arrests.

All that Scotland Yard will say now is that a full report of its investigations is being prepared for submission to the director of public prosecutions, Sir Theobald Mathew.

The prosecutions director is expected to consult the attorney general, Sir Hartley Shawcross, and the secretary for Scotland, Hector McNeil, before further action is taken.

With all that Scotland Yard has learned, however, it is understood that its agents have as yet failed to locate the stone itself although it is now believed hidden in a suburb of Glasgow.

The stone, known as the Coronation Stone, had rested for centuries beneath the coronation chair in Westminster Abbey. The 485-pound sandstone block was taken from Scotland in 1296 by King Edward I.

Scotland Yard may be reluctant to act swiftly because of a reported warning that if those who made off with the stone are arrested some 3,000 students of Glasgow university will march on London.

The English detectives were said to have got a line on their quarry by learning from the Mitchell library in Glasgow the names of students who had borrowed reference books on the stone just prior to the time it disappeared from the abbey.

According to one report, two young men concealed themselves in the abbey last Christmas Eve. They were said to have forced a door and carried the heavy stone to a waiting car. The stone is first supposed to have been hidden in England and removed later to Scotland.

The Greeks spearheaded an advance by American and Thai troops fighting over roadless mountain terrain.

MacArthur flew to the east coastal sector Tuesday after warning that the Communists have assembled a counter-striking force of at least 63 divisions.

The UN supreme commander inspected spearheads of the Rok (Republic of Korea) Capital Division as he jeaped 15 miles into North Korea to within easy range of enemy guns.

RETURNING in the evening to Tokyo's Haneda Airport, where his plane made a perilous radio-directed landing under a 600-foot ceiling after two passes at the runway, MacArthur declared:

"The tactical condition along the entire front remains favorable. We still maintain the initiative."

He said the Communist air and naval "weakness" and "lack of artillery and heavy weapons on the ground are being brilliantly exploited" by all UN field commanders. Asserting that "our strategy remains unchanged," MacArthur added:

"This is not positional war. It still is a war of maneuver."

The Korean war, now in its tenth month, verged on a critical new phase. This was reflected in a Tuesday morning communique by MacArthur who warned that the Chinese and North Korean invaders have massed "a potential strength of at least 63 divisions."

The UN commander termed this concentration of Red military power "the greatest of any period in the Korean campaign."

However, he pointed to the "compensating factors" of the "vulnerability" of the enemy's communications and his "limited logistic capacity."

At full strength, a Chinese division contains 10,000 troops. A North Korean division numbers 7,000 to 8,000 men.

OFFICERS AT U. S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea expected the storm to break at any moment. They said the Communists seemed ready to launch their southward counter-drive any time they choose, relying on Spring rains to bog down American armor and limit UN air operations.

The Eighth Army's commander, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, has warned that "we have not yet come to the crisis." He voiced confidence the crisis will be surmounted, but cautioned it will not be done "lightly or easily."

According to Eighth Army intelligence officers, late-model Russian tanks, artillery and other equipment have been supplied to the seasoned and fresh enemy units now poised for the expected big blow.

GOP Floor Leader Wherry, (R) Neb., jubilant over the switch in strength which wrote in the congressional approval amendment of Sen. McClellan, (D) Ark., after it had once been defeated, said the Senate had shown that "national defense policies will be determined by constitutional processes."

Administration Democrats and Republican progressives like Lodge denounced the McClellan amendment on congressional approval as a "straight-jacket" on the American people and the President.

But they pointed out that, in their present form, neither of the pending resolutions has any binding effect on the President.

Majority Leader McFarland, (D) Ariz., convinced the Senate it should continue its work on the resolutions today, rather than trying to stick to its original agreement to work last night until finished.

Only two amendments were adopted in voting yesterday. One was McClellan's, accepted by a vote of 49-43 after first being defeated, 46-44.

The other was a proposal by Sen. Watkins, (R) Utah, urging revision of the Italian peace treaty before further U.S. troops are sent to Europe. It was adopted by a vote of 67 to 20.

Bat-Proofing Book Printing Hit By Solon

WASHINGTON, April 3—A Connecticut congressman has suggested the government stop printing advice on bat-proofing of buildings.

In fact, Rep. Patterson, a Republican, urged the government to get out of the whole printing business except for those documents which are helpful and informative for lawmakers and citizens.

Another thing Patterson doesn't like about the Government Printing Office, the largest in the world, is that it prints technical reports about American science that are given to foreign governments at no charge, Patterson said.

"Today 67 foreign governments in Washington, including Russia, continue to receive their share of the 61,979,102 documents peddled by the government printing office annually."

The congressman pointed out that FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover requested and got the government to quit sending such documents to interned Axis diplomats and agents during the last war.

PATTERSON SUGGESTED that "it is time that others be taken off this mailing list now—and that an effort be made to prevent them from buying technical documents to send back home."

The Connecticut Republican deplored the fact that some 150,000 photographs are being stored in 124 steel filing cabinets "which are needed for other more important government business."

Patterson said the pictures bear such titles as "Fat Man Dosing," "Oil Cans at the Side of a Filling Station" and "Men Picking Their Teeth."

Two of the booklets Patterson mentioned were titled "Mist Nesting for Birds in Japan" and "The Peruvian Fisheries."

About the treatise on bats in buildings, Patterson commented:

"This publication goes into considerable detail but when it is thoroughly analyzed, it boils down to this: You open the doors of your building early in the evening to let the bats out—then, you close the doors after they are gone. That's bat-proofing."

Mobilizer Sees Farmer Problems

WASHINGTON, April 3—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson has recognized many of the farmers' most pressing problems. He has indicated that appropriate action will be taken to see that they get what they need for record production.

Wilson, in his first report on mobilization progress to the President says that some farmers will have difficulty with shortages in their production efforts this year.

He says that adequate labor "will undoubtedly be the most difficult problem facing the farmer in 1951." But, he said, farmers may also face some problems in securing equipment, fertilizer and pesticides.

New 'Code' Is Urged

Rothkopf and Morris Kleinman, are "perfect" for a test, Kefauver said, because their refusal to testify was based solely on the presence of cameras and microphones in the room and thus offers a clearcut issue.

The crime chairman said: "I think Congress must work out a new code of conduct for the operation of its committees."

Although Kefauver took the lead in getting the citations of Rothkopf and Kleinman, he conceded that there are two sides to the question.

In addition to the rights of a witness, he said, there is the fact that an outsider, who may be mentioned by the witness, has no opportunity to refute the testimony.

On the other hand, some contend that a congressional committee can set the conditions under which a hearing is held.

IT IS ARGUED also that a television or radio broadcast of an entire proceeding is fairer to a witness than newsreel or news reporting, which is limited normally to using the more interesting or sensational passages.

Kefauver endorsed the resolution of Sen. Wiley, (R) Wis., for a study of television, but he said it should go further and work out a general "code" for committees.

18 Ohio Centers Named For Draft Deferment Tests

COLUMBUS, April 3—Selective Service headquarters has announced 18 centers in Ohio where college students will take tests for possible deferment from service in the armed forces.

Here are the spots where the students will take the exams May 26, June 16 and June 30:

Ohio State university, Capital university and Franklin university, all in Columbus; Ohio university, Bowling Green State university, Ohio Wesleyan university, Kenyon college, Denison university, Lima Central high school.

Marietta college, Marion Harding high school, Middletown high school; Miami university, Wittenberg college, Otterbein college, Wilberforce college, Wilmington college and Antioch college.

The exams, which may gain exemptions for students while continuing their education, will be given to draft registrants who have started and will continue their college or university studies, under graduate or graduate.

High school graduates and other candidates for admission to their freshman year of college will be ineligible to take the tests until they enter college.

The test scores, which do not solely determine eligibility for deferments, will be used by local draft boards to help decide whether a draft registrant is eligible for occupational deferment as a student.

House Near Vote On Anti-Vice Legislation

COLUMBUS, April 3—The Ohio house votes today on a bill to give the governor the right to institute removal proceedings against sheriffs, mayors and prosecutors he believes are not doing their duty.

At present, the governor has the power to remove mayors summarily, but has no authority over sheriffs and prosecutors. As a result, many Ohio gambling joints have moved outside municipal limits, where the governor cannot touch local officials who fail or refuse to enforce the anti-gambling laws.

The new bill would remove the outright power to oust a mayor, but in turn would give the governor the same recall power over all three officials that now rests solely in the people. That is to start removal proceedings against them by filing specific charges in the county common pleas court.

The electorate would continue to have the power to institute recall proceedings through petitions bearing signatures of 15 percent of the voters. The governor, on his own, could institute same proceedings.

The bill is one arm of a two-pronged anti-vice program approved by house leaders. The other bill, to provide a fine of $1,000 and up to five years in prison for possession, display or transportation of a slot machine, is also ready for a vote.

2 Schools Face Full Shutdown

COLUMBUS, April 3—State Education Director Clyde Hisong has notified two Wayne County schools their permanent charters are being replaced with temporary charters expiring July, 1951.

The Paint Township and West Salem high schools are scheduled to close then because their continued small enrollments do not justify their continuance.

Five Youngsters Caught Cutting Fancy Figures

A series of fancy figures were cut by a group of Fairfield County boys Monday night, and it landed them in trouble.

The boys, five of them ranging from 16 to 18 years of age, were riding in two automobiles. To that authorities had no objections.

But the figures they cut, fancy figure eights and such, were on the lawn of Walnut Township school. And therein lay the squawk.

Doodling with wheels was in itself an objectionable practice, authorities felt. And doodling that left deep impressions on the school lawn was especially to be deplored.

The boys were rounded up by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards. The task of explaining the folly and possibly punishing the deed was left up to juvenile court.

Columbus Man Loses Driving Right For Year

Driving rights of Paul Hales, 34, of Columbus were suspended for one year Tuesday by Judge William D. Radcliff after he pleaded guilty to drunken driving.

In addition to the suspension of driving rights the Columbus man was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in Pickaway jail. The jail sentence was suspended.

Hales was arrested on U.S. Route 23 near Logan Elm Road by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff last Saturday. In a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Oscar Root, Hales was bound over to the grand jury under $300 bond.

Grand jury action was skipped when County Prosecutor Guy Cline filed an information against the man, bringing him before Judge Radcliff.

Statehood Bills Given To Senate

WASHINGTON, April 3—The Senate Interior Committee today approved and sent to the Senate legislation to give statehood to Hawaii and Alaska.

The vote on Hawaiian statehood was nine to four, and on Alaska, seven to six. Chairman O'Mahoney, (D) Wyo., announced he will call the measures up for Senate action as early as possible.

HANDLES FOR REFORM

We hope the American people will not cool off.

The steam pressure of public indignation (should continue) demanding reform.

One essential of the moment is for citizens to find specific places to grasp the general problem—handles through which pressure can be effectively applied.

It may be useful to sort out the possibilities:

1. Continued demands on local officials to follow up the "leads" developed by the Senate committee. Support for grand juries and prosecutors digging into the pest holes of crime. . . . Make a cleanup genuinely popular, recognized as "good politics."

2. Give attention and aid to the committee's forthcoming recommendations for legislation. . . .

3. Keep the spotlight of publicity vigorously probing. . . . Set up local inquiries. . . . Keep the light on politicians, and punish at the polls any who get near the rackets.

4. Establish standards of community ethics which will apply moral sanctions to legal, but unethical, "favors" and "influence" in politics and business. Senator Fullbright has properly urged a crusade of moral awakening among the people to purge this field where the law does not reach. He has also realistically called attention to the fact that government is cheated not merely by officials, but by supposedly-respectable businessmen.

In this fourth category. . . . every individual can do his share to lift the moral standard, particularly by example.

The moral approach should aim primarily at the patrons (of gambling). Without them, the business would die.

Here the thinking of every individual can help. For it is plain that in a community of genuine practicing Christians, crime. . . . would starve. . . . For the fundamental basis for higher moral standards is religious. As men understand better the spiritual nature of the Father and their true relationship to Him, they are led to behave more like the sons of God.—Christian Science Monitor.

The average gardener, as usual, will overdo radishes because they are easy to produce.

Few things are more precarious these days than the independence of a little country with a lot of oil.

Those who in Columbus' day insisted the world was flat must have been clairvoyant and have had 1951 in mind.

People in low diet countries are being urged to plant. They are low diet countries because this didn't occur to them.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

On a recent visit to Los Angeles, which is a growing and busy city that includes a suburb called Hollywood, I saw a headline in the trade paper "Daily Variety" which gave the impression that an actor, Ward Bond, who is a friend of mine, got himself into a quarrel with another actor, Jose Ferrer, whom I do not include among my friends.

According to this peculiar trade paper, Bond had indicated displeasure over a proposed endorsement of Ferrer by California teachers that came during the period when Hollywood was gestating with the silly ceremony of passing out "Oscars" which those engaged in producing movies take seriously. Bond happens to be a violent anti-Communist and an officer of the Motion Picture Alliance, which is a fine organization of real Americans and should be better known than it is.

As "Daily Variety" told it, it seems that some reporter for that paper inferred that Bond threatened to get Pegler and Sokolsky to attack the teachers association if they endorsed Ferrer. I do not like anyone using my name in vain, but Bond's account of the interview is satisfactory to me, and when I saw Pegler in Tucson, he appeared not to be displeased at the honor. So we will let it go at that.

Nevertheless, if any citizen gets into a row over being forced to be tongue-tied or to be silent because some idiotic judge said that to suspect a man of being a Communist and to say so in print is libel per se, let him send his story to me and if he is correct in his facts and I can check them, I shall be happy to help him out by telling the story.

The time has come to quarrel over the issue that Communists, fellow-travelers, sympathizers of Soviet Russia, New Dealers and Fair Dealers can smear and attack and abuse anyone they like, but no one can answer back lest he face an expensive and burdensome libel suit. This is a means of intimidation which we shall have to fight in the interest of free speech and the good of the country even if we have to pass the hat as we did in the McCullough case.

I also saw a piece about Joyce O'Hara, who is subbing for Eric Johnston as president of the Motion Picture Association of America, which he denied the next day. I do not know and am not called upon to say which of his two statements is the correct one, but he said some things in each which struck me as not too wise.

In the first piece, he is reported to have said that "fanatical anti-Reds in Hollywood constitute a greater menace to the film industry than Communists." That is obviously so dopey a statement that I was not surprised that on the very next day, the trade paper reported O'Hara as saying:

"I made no mention whatsoever of those in Hollywood who are fighting Communism. I did say that there are a few extremists outside of Hollywood who were unwilling to give Hollywood credit for the job it has done thus far in waging its fight against Communists."

To me the denial is as stupid as the original statement. Any American who is not "fanatical anti-Red" is just a no good bum—to use language to which I may have to become accustomed—and ought to be treated as such. There can be no half-way, half-hearted anti-Communists. Reds are our enemies and their associates are killing our sons. The person who can see both sides of that question is either a fool or he likes a profit better than his country. It is too late for anyone to be smart-alecky about Communism.

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

BECKY was waiting for Quint and Jennet in Aladdin's shed, her eyes round with excitement. "Mr. Darby, there're soldiers in the taproom. Six of 'em. I counted through a crack in the door. They went down to the Rock first and then they came up."

The guard General Potter had spoken of. Quint's face darkened. "Put up my horse, Becky, and you two go to the kitchen and stay there. And no peeking through the door crack."

An officer of the regular army was with General Potter in the taproom, a tall man of pompous bearing, resplendent in the gold braid of his rank.

General Potter introduced him briefly. "General Van Rensselaer—Mr. Quintus Darby."

General Van Rensselaer gave a half-salute; Quint acknowledged it with a slight inclination of his head.

General Van Rensselaer drew himself up to an even more important erectness. "You are the owner of the property ceded rights to this ferry across the river, and to maintain its landing on this side."

"I am."

The General drew a sheet of paper from inside his tunic, looked down at it, as if he were reading it. In the interests of defense, he announced, and for future invasion the army was taking over both ferry and landing for the duration of the war. A guard would be posted at the landing night and day. Two twelve-pounders would be set up on the higher ground commanding the landing as soon as they came from Canandaigua where they had been requisitioned.

He folded the paper. Quint had a strong conviction that there was nothing really written on it.

"And the tavern here?" he asked.

"As a civilian. . . ." The General's glance dropped for an instant to Quint's empty sleeve. " . . . you have the right to carry on your business as long as it does not interfere in any way with the strategies of defense and offense, as planned by our councils of war. Until some barracks are put up you are asked to feed the guard I am leaving here, for which expense you will be paid when the money requisitioned comes in."

Now the General made a full salute, signalled to General Potter, turned on his heel with fine military precision and led the way out of the taproom.

A loud guffaw came from one of the four regulars they had left behind. One stepped up to the bar, saluted Toby. "By order of the Government of the United States of America, four rum flips, my fellow, for which expense you will be paid when the money requisitioned comes in."

Bennett Cerf's

Try, Stop Me

In "The Life of Mahatma Gandhi," Louis Fischer relates that although the late General Christian Smuts was compelled, in the line of duty, to imprison Gandhi on numerous occasions, he used to send him religious books to read while he was in custody. Once, in South Africa in 1914, the imprisoned Gandhi made Smuts a pair of sandals which the General wore every Summer for years.

On Gandhi's seventieth birthday in 1939, however, Smuts returned the sandals to Gandhi with this characteristic note, "I have worn these sandals for many a day, though I feel I am not worthy to stand in the shoes of so great a man."

"Talk about coincidences," the late Al Jolson once boasted. "I was at the track yesterday when suddenly I realized it was the seventh day of the seventh month with the seventh race coming up. So I put seven hundred bucks on horse number seven." "And?" asked his agent. "And," concluded Jolson, "he finished seventh."

The elevators in New York City carry 15,000,000 people a day.

He paid when money comes in. "Ho-ho!" He looked back at his companions. "Hear that? When it comes in."

Quint took one stride up to the fellow.

"Your guard duty does not include this tavern. I give orders here. You will enter it only to eat. And trespassing about these premises will be reported to your commanding officer. If he does not deal with it, I will."

He spoke quietly though his blood was pounding at his temples.

The man swung around. "You?" But his sneer altered at the steeliness in Quint's eyes, the set of his mouth.

Quint went into his office, got out two pistols. Perhaps the time had come to keep them at hand. He belted one on himself, drew his coat down over it, returned to the taproom with the other.

"I've powder—not much, so use it only when it is absolutely necessary. Keep it out of sight but within reach," he told Toby.

He went to the kitchen where Jennet and Becky and Sarah were busy preparing supper. As she worked Jennet was entertaining the others with some mimicry which was making Becky giggle and even old Sarah smile. It struck Quint suddenly that he had never heard Becky laugh, or even a smile on Sarah's face while Rhoda was in charge. And what he had to say must check their merriment.

"Have they all gone?" asked Jennet at once. "We didn't peek through the door but we did watch through the window and we saw two ride away. They looked most magnificent!"

He told her of the guard left at the landing. "They'll not trouble us, here—I've seen to that. But from now on I forbid either of you or Becky to leave the tavern yard unless I am with you."

"I've a pistol, Uncle Quint. I told you before—I am very expert with it."

Red came up Quint's face. "Leave it where it is, young lady. I'll take care of the safety of my household." He turned to Sarah to instruct her to fill supper plates for the four soldiers. He left them, then.

But through the next few days there proved nothing menacing in the guard so close at hand. They slept, two in turn, in a rough, canvas-covered shelter near the landing and when on duty sprawled under a tree on the high bank playing cards part of the time and sleeping, Quint suspected, the rest. They gave Toby no trouble, spoke respectfully enough to Quint when they encountered him in the taproom. Old Sarah's grandson, who was too young to volunteer and whom Quint had hired as a potboy, brought their food in to them and

Toby entered a careful account of it for future payment.

No one was going on, only the faintest echo of it reached the river, here. Across the river it was as peaceful. Some, coming to the taproom, repeated rumors they'd picked up—Hull had reached Detroit, Hull had crossed the river, and was in Canada. He had a lot of Kentucky volunteers with him—hard fighters they were. A trader, stopping the night, told of hearing that the British already were in flight.

No one was interested in what might be happening at sea. The seas were a long way off.

Then, one afternoon, Judge Merriam came into the taproom. Quint was surprised, for the Judge seldom came to Black Rock, as the affairs of his office were confined to the Buffalo village and neighboring Te-osah-way.

"Have you time for a council of a sort, Darby? I've need of you!"

Quint was deeply gratified, remembering that afternoon in the Judge's office. He had not been unaware of a coolness in General Potter's manner when he came to the tavern with General Van Rensselaer. But evidently Judge Merriam was still friendly.

"Come into the parlor, sir."

In the parlor the older man sank down into a chair with a heavy sigh. "You've it quiet here, Darby. You don't know the blessing of it: It's bedlam in our village. Regulars have come—they're quartered here, there and everywhere. No one knows when his bed may be requisitioned. An undisciplined lot, too. Brawls go on all night long in the streets and in the taverns, while our militia waits to be reinforced by them, down river. The militia've no arms, half of them, and what food they eat they have to beg for or steal. . . ."

He roused, pounded a fist on the chair arm. "A damnable situation! The government throws us into war and then forgets us!" For all his show of anger his face had a deeply aggrieved look.

This was far different talk from that which had gone on around the Judge's office table, that other afternoon. Disturbingly different, too, from the rumors that had come into the taproom. Quint spoke of Hull's advance.

Now the Judge rose half out of his chair.

"Man, don't you know? They've pushed Hull back into Detroit. Ah, he can't hold a position there for long. Brock's got too strong a force. Half of Hull's men are deserting. They've no supplies to stand a siege and Fort Mackinac's fallen and Fort Dearborn. Tecumseh's joined up with the British. . . ."

He stopped, settled back in his chair. "A finger of brandy, Darby, would be very welcome."

Treating Painful Bursitis

By HERMAN N. BUNDENSEN, M.D.

NATURE has done everything possible to render movement of the joints easy and frictionless. One aid to this goal is found in the many little fluid-filled sacs located around the joints. Normally they serve the purpose of cushioning joint movement but, if inflamed, they become trouble-makers, causing the painful condition known as bursitis.

Bursitis most frequently affects the shoulder and knee joints. A common type is that known as housemaid's knee in which the inflammation is due to injury from the pressure exerted during long periods of kneeling.

Bursitis may be an added feature of gout or arthritis. Infections of various kinds may cause pus to form in a bursa, but the most common type is probably due to the formation of an excessive amount of fluid in the bursa.

The first symptoms of bursitis are pain and limitation of movement. X-ray examination will usually show abnormal changes, consisting of deposits of lime salts in the bursa. In most cases there is also tenderness in the affected area. As a general rule, there is no disturbance in the sensation of the arms or legs, nor is there any muscle weakness.

Three methods of treatment are employed in bursitis. These include X-ray irradiation, surgical removal, and injection of a local anesthetic or pain-relieving substance into the affected area. A course of four or five X-ray treatments seems extremely helpful. After each X-ray treatment the pain may become worse for a time. However, in most cases, within a few weeks after the last treatment, the pain vanishes and does not return. If the X-ray treatments do not produce relief, the injections of local anesthetics should be tried. Should this treatment fail, surgical removal of the affected bursa may be required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. B. A.: Is prolapse of the rectum common in infants? What can be done to help this condition?

Answer: This condition is not a common one.

Prolapse of the rectum in a child frequently can be cured by merely putting on a bandage which holds the rectum in place, and by building up the child's general condition. The bandage can be applied so that it holds the buttocks together, but at the same time does not obstruct the passage from the bowels.

It is also important that the child sit on a small toilet seat and that his feet be supported when he is on the toilet. Constipation should be prevented by the use of the correct diet, and mineral oil, if necessary.

If the method suggested does not overcome the difficulty, an operation to correct the condition may be required.

MARCH OF EVENTS

Congress Is in No Mood To Strengthen Rent Law Controls Would Have Died Except for War in Korea

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—RENT CONTROL—There are indications of a long-range extension of rent ceilings but the prospects for this aren't as sure as the temporary 90-day continuation. Administration proposals to strengthen the rent law won't get very far, however. Congress is in no mood to tighten present curbs. If the Korean war hadn't broken out, rent controls definitely would have died March 31. However, with the mobilization effort resulting from the war, most legislators believe the curbs must be continued to control housing.

SOME FUN—Price Stabilizer Mike DiSalle was full of wit and wisecracks in his most recent appearance before a congressional committee. When one member of the joint defense mobilization committee complained that every weekend when he goes home he is besieged with calls about the cotton exchange situation, DiSalle quipped: "I'd just like to get home for a weekend." Another member pulled out a newspaper clipping and said that it quoted DiSalle. Before he could continue, the rotund little official shot back: "I didn't say it."

And another time, DiSalle—when asked to estimate an increase in living costs resulting from wage increases, replied: "I didn't bring my slide rule with me—and if I had, I wouldn't know how to use it."

The point of all the humor is: It takes a man with a good sense of humor to stand the gaff of being price chief.

SENATE PEACE MAKER—Old-timers around the Capitol are surprised by the harmony Senate Democratic Leader Ernest McFarland, Arizona, has been able to achieve. He has worked quietly behind the scenes as a peace-maker between northern and southern Democrats and the measure of his success is not generally known. But it was demonstrated the other day when a prolonged floor fight was averaged over a bill to liberalize the immigration provisions of the anti-subversives act. The bill was brought to the floor by Senator Pat McCarran (D), Nevada. It did not go far enough to suit Senator Senators Hubert Humphrey and Herbert Lehman. The stage was set for something of a bitter row between the two wings of the party. Suddenly debate on the bill was postponed a day, ostensibly to give the right of way to a temporary extension of rent controls. The real reason, however, was to give McFarland time to line up both sides on a compromise, which he did. When the bill was finally called up, it was passed without a fight, without rancor, and with but brief debate.

PETTICOAT RULER—There's a good chance the first woman vice president in this hemisphere and probably in the world will take office next year. Eva Peron, Argentina's ambitious first lady, is expected to fill the second spot on Col. Juan Peron's re-election ticket next February. Enterprising Evita hasn't yet announced her candidacy. But the Feminista party, a branch of the all powerful Peron party, is already plugging for her election. There's little doubt that President Peron will be re-elected. And it's equally certain his wife can have the second highest job if she wants it. Observers note, however, that the first lady's elevation to the vice presidency would merely place an official stamp on the influence she already wields in Argentine politics. As one of the president's closest advisers, she has a strong voice in cabinet appointments and administration policy, heads the quasi-government welfare and relief set-up and owns several newspapers.

Monday Club Members Hear Book Review By Mrs. E. S. Shane

'Dolly Madison' Story Told

"Blended in with the account of lavish entertaining and description of gowns, capelets, turbans and jewels the author, Miss Katharine Anthony has included a great deal of American history," according to Mrs. E. S. Shane in reviewing the book, "Dolly Madison" before the members of Monday Club.

"Indeed," she continued, "the book must be classified as historical as well as biographical for such a life cannot be separated from the history making events of that period."

Mrs. Shane told that "throughout the first part of the book the dominant theme is the Quaker background and environment of Dolly Payne. As a child, a young wife and later a widow she never deviated from the Quaker way of life."

"Dolly fades temporarily from sight as the reader is given a picture of James Madison — known as 'the great little Madison.' A mutual friend, Aaron Burr, introduced Dolly and Madison, a meeting which culminated in their marriage. They remained in Philadelphia until Madison was called to Washington to serve as secretary of state under President Jefferson."

"In Washington Dolly became the idol of the capital and it would be hard to over-estimate the Madison influence on the Jefferson administration."

Mrs. Shane continued, "While history making events were shaping the future of the young nation, Dolly Madison carried the burden of official hostess to President Jefferson for eight years before her own husband was elected to that office."

"Through war election and more war, Dolly kept up her entertaining. When the invasion came she was forced to flee the city taking with her the Stuart portrait of General Washington."

"The re-building of the city was accomplished, the President's house was revived with several coats of white paint and thus it became known as the White House."

"For two more years Madison continued as president and then he and Dolly retired, without regret, to a large plantation in Virginia where for twenty years Dolly continued as a gracious and charming hostess."

Continuing the book review, Mrs. Shane said, "The later years in Madison's life were devoted to the historical data in notes he had taken during the framing of the Constitution. These came to be known as the Madison papers and following the death of her husband Dolly went to Washington to supervise their publication, a task which she finally completed when she was past 80 years of age."

Mrs. Shane concluded, "Though a century has passed since Dolly Madison left the scene, she still lives on as a beautiful legend composed of charm, beauty and supreme social graciousness."

Get Extra Wear Out Of Odd Hose

If you've been having runs and tears in your 15-denier or 30-denier nylon hosiery, the chances are your dresser drawer has a stack of unmatched stockings — patiently awaiting your next move.

By using a stocking dye, you can get plenty of extra wear out of those hosiery "bachelors," and they will be in the new smart shades.

The first step is to remove enough of the old color from the stockings to enable you to re-dye. Color remover, available at all-fabric dye counters in department, drug and variety stores—requires no boiling, so it's safe for nylon, rayon and other man-made fabrics.

No boiling is needed for the stocking dye, either and it comes in six light and four dark shades. Re-dyeing your hosiery is a real money-saver, since a single box contains enough dye for many pairs.

You can employ the same stocking dyes to change your dark-colored winter hosiery to the warm Spring shades, using color remover first to prepare the stockings for the dye-bath. The light dye colors available are victory beige, wine blush, coral tan, smoke haze, brown butter and hula bronze. You can vary these colors considerably, by simply varying the amount of dye used.

County Probation Officer Aims Workings Of Local Juvenile Court

Karl Herrmann, Pickaway County probation officer, outlined duties of the juvenile court in a talk Monday evening before Circleville Kiwanis Club.

Herrmann stated the juvenile court handles cases of delinquent, dependent and neglected children along with special services and physically handicapped children from homes whose parents cannot afford proper treatment.

Adult cases are also brought to the attention of the juvenile court when an affidavit is filed against adults for child neglect, contributing to delinquency or for non-support. Herrmann declared:

"It is not the desire of the court to make a criminal of a child by entering all cases on the official record if a solution can be reached by talking with the child and his parents."

"The large majority of delinquent child cases, when studied, show the cause to be the parents. Many of these parents are totally indifferent to their responsibilities as parents and will not make an effort to improve the conditions of their home unless forced to do so by the court."

Herrmann stated that the crippled children laws of Ohio have been copied by many other states.

"In the period from 1940 to 1950, over $20,000 were spent on physically handicapped children in Pickaway County with 55 percent of this cost assumed by the county," he said and added:

"The number of recorded cases handled by the juvenile

Draft-Dodger Faces Sentence

LOGAN, April 3—Loy Vernal Imboden, 23, of Logan, today faces a possible five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine after he was found guilty of draft evasion yesterday in Columbus.

"The financial reward derived from this work is not large but the satisfaction of helping boys and girls who do not know where to turn for aid cannot be measured."

'Plant-A-Tree' Program Due In Ohio In April

COLUMBUS, April 3—Horatio Ford of Cleveland, president of the Ohio Forestry Association, has announced plans for the annual "plant-a-tree" program and essay contest in Ohio high schools in observance of Arbor Day April 27.

Governor Lausche has proclaimed April as conservation month and April 27 as Arbor Day.

Ford said seedling trees again will be offered to schools for Arbor Day planting ceremonies.

The OFA is sponsoring the essay contest on the subject of "The Economic Value of Trees to Ohio."

The winning essay will be worth a wrist watch to the author.

The teacher of the winning student gets a $125 scholarship to the Ohio Conservation Laboratory at Leesville Lake.

HADACOL Relieves The Cause Of Stomach Distress, Aches and Pains, Weak, Run-Down Conditions and Nervousness When Due to Deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron

Why Settle for Symptomatic Relief When HADACOL Can Help People With Such Deficiencies?

Don Pablo, famous orchestra leader, 15319 Vaughan, Detroit 23, Mich.: "Since I had been suffering with pains, especially when the weather changed, and it seemed that nothing would alleviate it until recently I tried HADACOL, and I was amazed by the results. Now I always keep a bottle to replace the empty. Being a bandleader and pianist where my wrist is essentially used, I am very grateful to HADACOL. Now I can bring to the public the music they enjoy and I enjoy playing it myself."

Mrs. Douglas A. Catrett, P. O. Box 384, Rt. 3, Mobile, Ala.: "I have a good word to say about HADACOL for it certainly seems a miracle to me. My son, Wayne, who is eight years old, was considerably underweight — in fact, he wore a size four shirt. Someone suggested that I give him HADACOL. After taking four large bottles Wayne is no longer underweight. Now he gets up early and he has a good appetite. He eats lettuce, cabbage, carrots and greens. He hasn't missed a day from school. Thanks to HADACOL."

Richard Krabill, 3118 Marfield Road, Toledo 14, Ohio: "I am an apprentice pharmacist and I go to the University of Toledo. My daily schedule is very rigid. Going to school full time and working after school until 9:30 gets pretty tiresome. I was getting tired and run-down keeping pace with all I had to do. Being married and having a family, I am compelled to work after school. I work in a pharmacy here in Toledo. After selling HADACOL here in the store I decided I'd try it. You have no idea how much it has picked me up. I'm selling you truthfully, HADACOL is the answer to all my tiredness."

Mrs. L. A. Stubbs, R. N. Route 3, Box 204, Mendenhall, Mississippi: "I have been giving HADACOL to my two children, ages five and seven. They did not eat as they should. Since giving them HADACOL they feel better and eat more than they have in a long time."

Mrs. Frank P. Martino, 5524 Wickfield Drive, Apt. B, New Orleans, La.: "I am a housewife, age 27, taking care of my baby who is 3½ years old. I wasn't able to take care of my baby and do my work at the same time. I was always feeling run-down and very nervous until I tried taking HADACOL. Well, believe me, I have only been taking it for two and a half months and have experienced a wonderful change for the better. I don't feel nervous or run-down any more. I feel and eat a lot better. Thanks to HADACOL."

SENATOR DUDLEY J. LeBLANC, Whose Tireless Efforts For Relief Of Suffering Have Brought Humanity Today's Great HADACOL

Senator LeBlanc in all of his political activities has always championed the cause of the oppressed, and the poor and underprivileged.

He was the first candidate for Governor to advocate a specific Old Age Pension... and today in Louisiana, he is known as the Father of the Old Age Pension. In the course of his long, lone fight he has had his critics, but to those who opposed him he has continually stated, "If you do not believe in Old Age Pensions, remember the mandate of the Lord Himself—Honor thy Father and thy Mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Senator LeBlanc is known as a friend of the veterans. He introduced and successfully passed the law that created the State Service Commissioner whose duty it is to see that every service man receives his just compensation from both State and Federal governments. His activities in public life in behalf of the working man are too numerous to mention here.

It was only natural that in his sincere desire to serve the people, that Senator LeBlanc would seek and find a product that would tend to assist the poor and ailing, that would help them lead a more happy and contented life. His tireless study and effort resulted in today's wonderful HADACOL.

Why Wait?
Why experiment, why give up, why suffer from a lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin? Why not make up your mind to start taking HADACOL today with the positive assurance that it will help you if you suffer such deficiencies or the Senator will gladly send back your money. You have to be satisfied, and since Senator LeBlanc has proven by his past activities that he is your friend, you know what he does. Ask for HADACOL now. Weekly Review Of Business

By THEODORE KOSLOW
INS Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 3.—Business and industry in the United States reached a critical milestone as the second quarter of 1951 was officially ushered in yesterday.

Although most of the nation's basic industries continue to boom, the situation is less satisfactory in such fields as textiles, television, and furniture where production apparently has outdistanced demand, for the time being.

This uncertainty has been blamed for the recent downturn in values on the New York Stock Exchange. However, stock prices staged a recovery late last week from an earlier sell-off to finish the period about unchanged, although not before hundreds of issues had sold at new lows for the year.

The rejection of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean truce offer by the Chinese Communists brought renewed buying into so-called "war stocks" in the wake of the "peace scare" which had driven values sharply lower on the preceding weekend.

WALL STREET circles did not take kindly to Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston's declaration that he would soon announce a "tough policy" on profits. This was one of the factors causing investors to hold off from making new stock commitments and was reflected in the subnormal level of stock market activity.

Meantime, reports indicated that most of the shortages in goods which had been expected some months ago have not developed. At the same time, a more cautious buying attitude on the part of the consuming public has left retailers loaded up with greater inventories of merchandise than they usually like to carry.

On the brighter side, a government survey disclosed that business spending for new plants and equipment this year is expected to reach a record high of $23.9 billion. This is 29 percent above expenditures in 1950 and 24 percent higher than the previous high established in 1948.

Turning to the industrial front, steel production last week attained a new all-time peak of 2,069,000 tons of ingots and castings on an operating rate of 103 1/2 percent of rated capacity. This compared with the previous production record of 2,025,000 tons chalked up in the week of Jan. 29. Output a week ago had amounted to 2,021,000 tons on an operating rate of 101 and 1-10th percent.

The nation's automobile industry, meanwhile, completed the first quarter production volume in its history to confound those skeptics who had anticipated a sharp contraction in output because of the switch to a wartime economy.

ACCORDING TO Automotive News, manufacturers turned out 1,605,611 passenger cars and 1,982,075 vehicles in the initial three months of 1950.

It generally was acknowledged, however, that this will prove to be the high-water mark for the year since government restrictions on vital materials, which became effective Sunday, are certain to force production cutbacks.

Pre-Easter department store sales volume was considered disappointing. The Federal Reserve Board placed nationwide sales in the week ended March 24 nine percent above the same week last year, as compared with a rise of 11 percent over a year ago the week before.

As an indication of the way store sales have been tapering off in recent weeks, a related

County Health Aides Winding Up Pupil Check

Checkups in ten of the 17 units in the Pickaway County school system have been completed by officials of the county health department.

In a report covering the first three months of 1951, the county department's commissioner and nurse gave detailed results of their search for youngsters having defective teeth, tonsils and vision along with infectious skin disease.

Procedure calls for letters of conditions being sent to parents along with recommendations. If correction is not made, county officials make personal calls on the parents to further urge correction and offer necessary assistance.

The 1951 first quarter report revealed that:

Out of 37 home calls made regarding poor vision, 19 had responded to the letters sent home, two had moved out of the county, 16 had corrections made following the nurse's visit.

42 HOME CALLS made to children having bad tonsils and 17 of these children responded to the first examination and had corrections made. There were five tonsil and adenoid operations performed following the second visit. However, 19 had nothing done.

The nurse had 20 conferences with school superintendents and teachers regarding children.

110 school children were inspected for skin disease.

Ten school children were checked for mumps and two home calls were made to such cases.

Three cases of scabies were found and referred for treatment.

Eighteen home visits were made to crippled children.

Ten tuberculosis calls were made to four cases and 15 x-rays arranged. One arrested case referred to Circleville City Health Dept.

Diphtheria immunizations were given 13 pre-school children.

Fulbright Asks Continuance Of RFC Program

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The man who has done most to expose questionable operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. urged Congress today to reject the mounting effort to kill off that agency.

Sen. Fulbright, (D) Ark., went before the Senate Expenditures Committee to argue that the RFC should be continued, if only on a limited basis.

Chairman Hoey, (D) N. C., of the subcommittee which conducted the 1949 probe into Washington's influence-peddling "five percenters," announced that he is ready to take over the investigations of the RFC, the Maritime Commission and any other government agency whose activities need airing.

Fulbright testified in support of President Truman's proposal to put the RFC, which has issued billions in government loans, under a single administrator instead of its present five-man board of directors.

The senator said that most of

Hospitals, Schools Exempt From Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Fees and service charges of hospitals and educational institutions were exempted today by Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle from the general price freeze of last Jan. 26.

Hospital charges were exempted for a period of six months during which OPS will make a continuing study to determine whether any resultant increases are justified.

DiSalle said OPS has been informed that about 90 percent of all hospitals are governmental, charitable or non-profit organizations and thus rate increases sometimes may be necessary to maintain adequate care.

In exempting school fees, DiSalle pointed out that rates charged by private institutions have little direct effect on the cost of living.

Experts Say Keep Eye On Bosox

AL Flag May Go
To Injury Crew

NEW YORK, April 3—New York's hot stove league experts believe the Boston Red Sox can win the American League pennant next season despite a misfortune that has hit one of their stars and the fading of another to the point where he can't hold his job.

Walt Dropo, last season's rookie of the year, will be out for approximately two months with a broken wrist. This means loss of the first baseman who last season hit .322 and belted 34 homers. He also drove in 144 runs.

His place at first will be taken over by Billy Goodman, the all-around handyman who started out as a first baseman and winds up back there after playing virtually every other position on the club.

Goodman will help, even though the outfield may not be as good as with him out there. They could use Dropo, putting it another way, but they are fortunate in having a Goodman to move in for him.

The other switch comes in the right side of the infield, where Johnny Pesky will leave third base for a pace on the bench. Vern Stephens will move from short to third and Lou Boudreau, the old young pro from Cleveland, will take over the short-field vacancy.

BOUDREAU IS getting into the lineup because of his ability on the double play, contrasted with Stephens' slowness to a faint trot.

Boudreau, the man with legs bandaged like mummies because of the softening he sustained as a college basketball player, still

Redbirds Seek To Break Long Losing Streak

DAYTONA BEACH, April 3—The Columbus Redbirds will lose either way here today as they start their tenth exhibition game of the Spring season against Rochester.

If the Birds don't lose the game they will lose a five-game setback streak which was punctuated yesterday by an 8-5 licking administered by Toronto.

It was Toronto's eighth win in 10 Grapefruit League contests and the sixth defeat in nine outings for Skipper Cappy Walker's diamondmen.

The Birds collected 13 hits off Maple Leaf hurlers Phil Marchiondo and Hal Hudson, but left 11 runners stranded, five in the last two frames.

The Toronto batters, spearheaded by First Baseman Les Fleming, managed 13 hits and their eight runs in the first eight frames off Bird Pitchers Bob Kerce and George Dries.

Columbus Rookie Fred McAlister drove home a run, triple and double and Catcher Dick Morgan tabbed three straight singles and two runs batted in but the Birdies faded for lack of good clutch hitting.

Redlegs Start Trek For Home

LEESBURG, Fla., April 3—The Cincinnati Reds take the long way home today making the first of nine stops here where they will play the Washington Senators.

Manager Luke Sewell will rotate his "big five"—Ewell Blackwell, Ken Raffensberger, Howie Fox, Herm Wehmeier and Willie Ramsdell—in the remaining exhibition games.

has more shortstop in him than a lot of the boys in the business. That he will help the club at the outset seems ordained. He may slow up eventually before the season is over and need a replacement, but by that time Dropo will be back at first and Goodman will be available again for the outfield or for third base.

The strange thing about the Boston club—one of the many strange things—is that it has such a wealth of talent that injuries and shifting and juggling do not lessen chances of a pennant triumph.

They have a reasonably good pitching staff, and if it holds up you can be prepared to watch this club go from start to finish. If they can hold their own while Dropo is out, his return will serve as a mid-season shot in the arm to keep them going, and perhaps to enable them to avoid ever being headed.

No other club in the league, or perhaps in either league, could juggle around as the Red Sox are doing and still be regarded as a threat.

The Yanks won two years ago with a record number of injuries and juggling, but this was a day to day proposition. They did not start the season with so many key men uncertain. Most of their injuries piled up late.

The Red Sox are starting without their first baseman and with their shortstop on third to make room for a veteran from elsewhere.

Tom Campbell Is Impressive

PHILADELPHIA, April 3—Tommy Campbell of Los Angeles may have earned a title bout with Lightweight King Ike Williams when he outclassed Calvin Smith of Philadelphia in a 10-rounder last night.

Promoter Herman Taylor said he may try to make the match after seeing Campbell win a unanimous decision over the Philadelphia in the arena.

Campbell, who felled Smith with a right to the jaw for an eight count in the first round, was substituting for Williams. Ike had bowed out claiming illness.

Globetrotters Outclerk Stars

HERSHEY, Pa., April 3—The Harlem Globetrotters outclerked the College All-Stars for their second straight triumph in an 18-game series here last night.

The professionals were ahead all the way in the easy 63-54 win. John Azary, captain of Columbia's undefeated Ivy League champions, matched the 17-point total chalked up by the Globetrotter's ace, Marques Haynes.

The third game is scheduled for tonight in Buffalo.

Lou Rossini Coach Of Year

PHILADELPHIA, April 3—Columbia's Lou Rossini has been named coach-of-the-year by the Philadelphia Basketball Writers Association.

Rossini, 29, took over at Columbia when Coach Gordon Ridings became ill at the start of the season. The Lions won the Ivy League title, but lost to Illinois in the NCAA tourney.

Ike Williams May Be Stripped Of His Title

INDIANAPOLIS, April 3—Observers predicted today that Ike Williams will be stripped of his lightweight championship as soon as a poll of the National Boxing Association's executive board is completed.

President Archie Hindman disclosed last night that the NBA's championship rating committee has recommended to oust Williams and declare the title vacant.

Executive board members are being polled on the recommendation and will forward their votes to NBA headquarters in Indianapolis.

Williams has not defended his title since he defeated Freddy Dawson in Philadelphia Dec. 5, 1949. The NBA recently warned the fighter to sign for a defense before March 31. Hindman said:

"Williams has had plenty of time and enough warnings. He apparently has just ignored us."

The lightweight champ is scheduled to arrive in Chicago Thursday to begin training for an over-the-weight bout with Fritz Pruden April 11.

Hindman said in the event the title is declared vacant an elimination tournament will be held to pick a successor.

He named as top contenders for the title Dawson, Del Flanagan, Art Aragon and Pierre Montane, the French lightweight king.

Bucky's Boys Best In Nation, Lausche Says

COLUMBUS, April 3—Gov. Frank J. Lausche thinks the best high school basketball team in Ohio is also the best in the nation.

The governor expressed that opinion yesterday before a packed auditorium at Columbus East high school—the first Columbus school to win the state Class A cage championship. The Tigers won the crown Saturday by defeating Hamilton 57-39.

Governor Lausche told the student body which turned out to pay tribute to the team:

"I expected to find the team tired and worn out after its great victory, but upon looking around, I see they are fresh as daisies, and it is the faculty which looks tired to me."

Then the governor added:

"When you are the best in Ohio, you are the best in the nation, in my opinion."

The 1951 champions received a five-minute standing ovation when they appeared on stage. The entire assembly joined in singing "Happy Birthday" to two-year-old Stephanie Anne Walters, daughter of East Coach "Bucky" Walters, a native of Circleville.

Farmers Urged To Take Spring Cleanup Program Seriously

Fire Hazard Angle Is Stressed

Maximum Farm Production Linked

Pointing to the current farm cleanup safety campaign, Pickaway County Agricultural Agent Larry Best urged farmers to be thorough in elimination of winter-born fire hazards.

He stressed that the Spring cleanup is necessary to "assure maximum farm production for national defense."

Endorsed by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural Extension Services, the program this year emphasizes the theme that Food is Ammunition.

"The nation can not afford farm fire losses," the agent said, "at a time when food reserves must be built up."

Participation in the cleanup drive calls for removal of paper and other combustible materials accumulated in homes and farm buildings. It demands careful inspection of buildings and equipment to uncover hidden fire hazards. Repairs and replacements are urged where necessary for fire safety.

BEST POINTED OUT that State Fire Marshal Harry J. Callan has estimated that Ohio fires in 1950 resulted in a total property loss of $25 million.

A great many of these fires were caused by allowing rubbish, leaves, grass and other debris to accumulate throughout the winter with no attempt being made to clean up this accumulation in the Spring.

Junior Fire Patrols that have been established in a great many schools throughout the state are assisting in the Spring cleanup of their towns and are doing a bang up job of it.

Foss H. Gragg, program director of the Ohio Fire Safety Committee, is urging all civic minded citizens, service clubs, chambers of commerce and fire departments to get behind this campaign and stop the fires before they start. He said:

"Fifty-seven percent of all home fires start in the basement. Going on that assumption, if you clean up your basement, you will eliminate over fifty percent of your fire hazards. Let us not stop there but go right on through the house and finish in the attic, throwing away those things that we have kept for years thinking that some day we may have use for them. Americans probably keep more rubbish than any country in the world. We also have the worst fire rate.

"Spring is also the time to check our heating plants and chimneys so that they will be ready to operate safely in the Fall. If we all take a look around our premises, our homes and business places, we are sure to find some fire hazards. Let's clean them up and avoid fires this Summer.

"Clean up before you are cleaned out by fire."

Half Dollars 'Thrown Away' In New York

NEW YORK, April 3—A group of girl volunteers is throwing away $1,000 in half dollars in New York today.

The idea is to prove that New Yorkers are honest and generous.

The 50-cent pieces are newly-minted Booker T. Washington half dollars, and each one thrown away is enclosed in an envelope bearing a letter addressed "To An Honest Person."

Finders are asked to keep the coins and send one dollar to the "Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial" in Washington, D. C., in an addressed envelope that also is enclosed with the shiny, new 50-cent piece.

Congress authorized the memorial group to sell the special coins at a premium. The sponsors of today's throw-away idea, who will spread the plan later to other cities, are sure the unusual collection method will be "highly successful."

So much so that they intend eventually to start losing 20,000 of the half dollars each week.

Needle Is Out For Laborites

LONDON, April 3—The British parliament resumes its sittings today following an Easter recess and the opposition Conservatives are all set to continue their efforts to cause the fall of the Labor government.

Wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill's Conservatives will launch their biggest fight when the budget is introduced next Tuesday.

Harboring tactics designed to wear down the Laborites by keeping them in late session, are expected to start immediately and continue right through the week until the budget is presented.

UAW Approves Hike In Dues

CLEVELAND, April 3—Leaders of the CIO-United Auto Workers beat back opposition last night to push through a $1-a-month dues raise at a heated convention session in Cleveland.

Walter I. Fisher, UAW president, pleaded for the boost—which brings dues to $2.50 per month—to guarantee a $15 million strike fund and a multi-million dollar stake for political action.

The increase was approved by an estimated three-to-one majority in a hand vote of the 2,200 delegates. An opposition demand for a rollcall gained only 495 votes.

Car Recovered, But It Cost $200

CHICAGO, April 3—Gunnar E. Johnson, 28, recovered his own stolen car, but it cost him $200 to do the job.

The Chicago businessman was driving his truck on a south side street yesterday when an auto passed that had been stolen from him March 22.

He set out in pursuit and forced the stolen vehicle to the curb by nudging it with the truck. The driver fled on foot, Johnson reported his repair bill resulting from contact with the truck will cost $200.

Six Columbus Fires Cause $78,000 Damage

COLUMBUS, April 3—Six fires yesterday which did an estimated $78,000 worth of damage in Columbus left one woman critically injured today and nine persons homeless.

Mrs. Martha Moberly, 38, wife of a Columbus musician, suffered first degree burns when her gas range exploded in her home. Hospital attaches this morning said her condition was very serious.

The major blaze was a three-alarm fire at the Anderson Haulage Co., where loss was set at $75,000. Fires also struck the Victor theater causing it to be closed; did $1,900 worth of damage to a paint and body shop; routed four families at a grill where a juke box short-circuited, and left nine persons homeless in a $950 blaze.

The Anderson firm fire was believed to have started in the gasoline tanks of a semitrailer loaded with lime.

The front of the one-story concrete block building was destroyed. Also destroyed were six concrete mixing trucks, a quantity of tires and equipment and tools stored in the building. Loss to the contents of the building was set at $48,000 and to the building itself, $27,000.

Ten employees of the firm escaped unharmed.

In other fires, Sheriff's Sgt. Fred W. Selby said the gas stove explosion in Mrs. Moberly's home threw her into the living room. The front and side portions of the frame dwelling buckled.

The $950 fire was blamed on a defective oil stove. Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford and their seven children, ages three to 14, were left homeless.

Noted Pianist Dies In Concert

NEW YORK, April 3—Fifteen years ago Simon Barere made his American debut in Carnegie

Hall. Last night, the noted Russian pianist collapsed on the stage of the same hall.

The 55-year-old virtuoso was soloist in the Grieg Concerto in A Minor, playing with the Philadelphia orchestra. He had played about half way through the first movement when he suddenly bowed over the keys until his head struck the board. Then he rolled off the stool onto the floor. He died a few minutes later.
